Galway Kinnell's journey of self-discovery in the book of nightmares

Tesis de maestría
Ver/

Fecha
2019-12-19

Autor
Quirós García, Elizabeth

Metadatos
Mostrar el registro completo del ítem

Resumen
Este trabajo de investigación se basa en un análisis del poemario The book of nightmares de Galway Kinnell utilizando como base teórica el enfoque mítico. Con este fin, se utilizará el aporte de Carl Jung, Joseph Campbell y Octavio Paz principalmente; así también, se discutirá el trabajo de Claude Levi-Strauss, Jacques Derrida y Jonathan Culler para estudiar el concepto de estructuralismo y el de opuestos binarios. Esto con el objetivo de analizar el viaje que el yo lírico realiza para comprender que la vida y la muerte son una unidad indisoluble. Es así como, el yo lírico inicia un viaje de auto-descubrimiento durante el cual comprende las diferentes funciones del mito en la vida de los individuos, su necesidad de completar ciclos que permitan su desarrollo dentro de una sociedad y, finalmente, comprender que hay elementos concretos que proporcionan al ser humano la oportunidad de descubrirse en la naturaleza.

URI
http://hdl.handle.net/10669/80509

Colecciones
Inglés [31]

Repositorios universitarios
- Repositorio del SIBDI-UCR
- Biblioteca Digital del CIICLA
- Repositorio Documental Rafael Obregón Loria (CIHAC)
- Biblioteca Digital Carlos Melendez (CIHAC)
- Repositorio de Fotografías
- Colección de videos de UPA-VAS

Sitios recomendados
- Buscador regional de LA Referencia
- Buscador del Open ROAR
- Scientific Electronic Library Online (SciELO)
- Directory of Open Access Journals (DOAJ)
Galway Kinnell poems, quotations and biography on Galway Kinnell poet page. Read all poems of Galway Kinnell and infos about Galway Kinnell. Galway Kinnell is an American poet. He was Poet Laureate of Vermont from 1989 to 1993. An admitted follower of Walt Whitman, Kinnell rejects the idea of seeking fulfillment by escaping into the imaginary world. His best-loved and most anthologized poems are "St. Francis and the Sow" and "After Making Love We Hear Footsteps". Biography. Born in Providence, Rhode Island, Kinnell said that as a youth he was turned on to poetry by Edgar Allan Poe and Emily Dickinson, drawn to both the musical appeal of their poetry and the idea that they led solitary lives. Galway Mills Kinnell (February 1, 1927 – October 28, 2014) was an American poet. He won the Pulitzer Prize for Poetry for his 1982 collection, Selected Poems and split the National Book Award for Poetry with Charles Wright. From 1989 to 1993 he was poet laureate for the state of Vermont. An admitted follower of Walt Whitman, Kinnell rejects the idea of seeking fulfillment by escaping into the imaginary world. His best-loved and most anthologized poems are "St. Francis and the Sow" and "After Making Main The Book of Nightmares. Mark as downloaded. The Book of Nightmares. Galway Kinnell. Categories: Poetry. Listen, Kinnell, dumped alive and dying into the old sway bed, a layer of crushed feathers all that there is between you and the long shaft of darkness shaped as you, let go. Even this haunted room all its materials photographed with tragedy, even the tiny crucifix drifting face down at the center of the earth, even these feathers freed from their wings forever are afraid. The self is the least of it. Let our scars fall in love. V In the hotel of lost light. Galway Kinnell -Body Rags -The Book of Nightmares W.S. Merwin -The lice Cesare Pavese -Hard Labor James Wright -Shall We Gather at the River Sylvia Plath -Ariel Allen Ginsberg -Howl Wallace Stevens -Harmonium -Collected Poetry and Prose Antonio Machado -Soledad -Times Alone Richard Wilbur -The Beautiful Changes Robert Creeley -For Love Cesar Vallejo -The Black Messengers Richard Brautigan -The Pill vs The. Kenneth Koch -New Addresses Wislawa Szymborska -View with a Grain of Sand Lucille Clifton -The Book of Nightmares. Read 108 reviews from the world's largest community for readers. Galway Kinnell's poetry has always been marked by richness ... In the maternal darkness, we supernova, as lightless as basalt, into a self burgeoning in the black loam beneath the ancient tree there on the shore of the ancient sea, the Dissembler was there to witness all this, stamping the notary seal on the soft crown of our creation. What Galway Kinnell's inspired text preposes is an alchemical formula for lifting the Dissembler's seal.