Decolonizing Anthropology: Moving Further toward an Anthropology for Liberation

Faye V Harrison
African American Studies, Anthropology

Research output Book/Report/Conference proceeding > Book

Abstract

Decolonizing Anthropology is part of a broader effort that aims to advance the critical reconstruction of the discipline devoted to understanding humankind in all its diversity and commonality...The utility and power of a decolonized anthropology must continue to be tested and developed...May the results of our ethnographic probes--the data, the social and cultural analysis, the theorizing, and the strategies for knowledge application--help us envision clearer paths to increased understanding, a heightened sense of intercultural and international solidarity, and last, but certainly not least, world transformation.

Fingerprint

Dive into the research topics of 'Decolonizing Anthropology: Moving Further toward an Anthropology for Liberation'. Together they form a unique fingerprint.

Liberation Social Sciences
Cultural analysis Social Sciences
Reconstruction Social Sciences
Anthropology Social Sciences
Solidarity Social Sciences
Knowledge Social Sciences

Press / Media