NURSING AS A CAREER: First year Students’ perception of and the reasons for their choice of Nursing as a career.

Mkala, Betty (2013)

The purpose of this thesis was to provide information for the school authorities to be able to improve on the nursing degree program. This was done by finding out the perception of nursing career for the first year nursing students in the international program in JAMK University of Applied sciences and getting to know what influenced their choices of the nursing career. The research was carried out using qualitative research method where closed and open-ended questions were used in data collection. A total of 26 answered questionnaires. Questions asked revealed students’ understanding of the nursing career as that which involves care, help, professional skills and responsibility, their reasons for studying nursing were that it provides personal satisfaction, job security and they possess the needed potentials required of the nursing profession, and the influences for their choice of nursing career that it provides personal satisfaction, job security and they possess the needed potentials required of the nursing profession. A follow up study of the same group of students after a year or so is recommended. To find if their perceptions changed, if their expectations on their studies and career are met and what their future expectations are in the career.
Title: NURSING AS A CAREER: First Year Students’ Perception Of And The Reasons For Their Choice Of Nursing As A Career. Degree Programme Degree Programme in Nursing. Tutor(s) Sinivuo, Riikka Garbrah, William Assigned by.

Abstract: The purpose of this thesis was to provide information for the school authorities to be able to improve on the nursing degree program. This was done by finding out the perception of nursing career for the first year nursing students in the international program in JAMK University of Applied sciences and getting to know what influenced their choices of the nursing career... As patient numbers grow and the population ages, compassionate, savvy nurses have an opportunity to make a difference. Keep reading to learn how to become a nurse. In This Article. Job duties: NPs serve as primary care providers to patients of all backgrounds and can diagnose illnesses and prescribe medication. They also educate patients about preventive care. In some states, NPs can practice independently without physician oversight, allowing them to open their own offices. After years of bedside care, some nurses look for a career switch within the field. Often, going back to school is the way to make a change. Specialize: Earning a master’s degree allows you to choose a specialty such as midwifery. I chose nursing as a career because I love learning new things. As a nurse, I am always challenging myself to keep current on medical trends and training so that I can provide the best care to my patients. Every day as a nurse, I learn something new from my colleagues and patients, which inspires me to explore a deeper knowledge of the techniques and procedures I use. Expand. Why It Works: This works because the candidate shows a willingness to keep current on skills and education necessary in the medical field. Tips for Giving the Best Answer. Nursing as a profession can offer a meaningful career, filled with many opportunities, challenges and rewards. On the job, you’ll have the chance to improve the wellbeing of people from all walks of life. So, how do you get started? Studying nursing in Australia can begin with a TAFE Course. Nursing is all about the patient. It’s a career that helps you save lives, bring happiness to individuals and their families, and comfort to those in need. From mental health and aged care to rehabilitation and midwifery, there are many areas where you can make a positive impact. While caring for patients fighting for their life can be a challenging experience, nurses still report a high level of job satisfaction. 2. A Job in High Demand.